Climate change could push more than 100 million people into poverty in just the next 15 years. "Climate change hits the poorest the hardest," says World Bank Group President Jim Yong Kim, "and our challenge now is to protect tens of millions of people from

ELCA CARE FOR CREATION FIRST STEPS FOR YOUR CONGREGATION

We are called to environmental stewardship and to care for the creation the God has given us.

Climate change is impacting God's creation. Humanity has played a part in its acceleration so we have a responsibility to take action. This journey of care can start with your church. The ELCA has come out strongly in support of actions to reduce climate change but each congregation must reflect on how to express environmental stewardship on its own.

Some first steps to help get your congregation started:

- Read over the ELCA Social Statements on Climate Change
- Form a Care for Creation team at your congregation
- Have the Pastors/Building Manager complete a building energy use checklist
- Conduct an Energy Audit of your church facilities
- Reduce the carbon footprint of your church
- Start a bible study using the ELCA World Hunger Resources
- Start a church garden
- Invite a speaker from the Lutheran Office for Public Policy in Wisconsin to talk at your church about Care for Creation
- Reach out to the South Central Synod/LOPPW Care for Creation Team for more tips
